LATE BIG ISLAND EVENTS TOLD IN SHORT PARAGRAPHS

Young Lochinvar Snatches Bride from Widower--Earthquake Shock Jars Several Places--Railroad and Common Road Work Is Progressing.

KOHALA, May 8. — (The Kohala Midget): John Perez, of Mahukona, and Miss Ah Lan Kim Sing, were quietly united in holy matrimony by Rev. Geo. L. Kopa, last Friday night. Sugar cane prospects for Pololu are bright, as plans are maturing whereby Nihiu plantation will take the cane raised. A road run by a steam winch, or a water-power drum, will be used to haul cane up.

Some boys fired a shot into Ah Lu's butcher shop. The bullet was extracted from the wood. The boys should be warned that such shooting is criminal. George Nahaku fell off the bridge or wharf at Mahukona, receiving very painful bruises. Another case of taking too much "dagoo-red."

Mrs. Rodenhurst received a wireless on Friday, saying that her daughter Emma is very ill in Honolulu. She took the Mauna Kea.

The Japanese baseball team of Nihiu is beating every team of their size. They are sending away for a new outfit.

The two masts washed ashore at Keokea measured seventy and seventy-five feet. They have been since been cut up for firewood.

Robert Stevens, for a long time a foreman for Puuhue ranch, recently employed on the Maileu ranch, has left his position, and is out for a larger salary. Likana, of Puuhue, took his place.

We understand that Mr. Andrew Guild has severed his relations with Kohala Mill, as engineer.

The beautiful practice of hanging May baskets was observed to a considerable extent in Kohala this year. Quite a number of the smaller girls made and delivered charming baskets, among whom we mention May Watt, Elizabeth Watt and Patty Achilles.

Hilda Moku, the little girl who fell from the mango tree on Sunday, at Pualele Gulch, died suddenly May 1, at 6 p. m., three days after the accident happened.

Dr. Bond now has a red-cross flag which is swung at the Manne gate whenever he is inside and wanted at Hawaii, or vice versa. It doesn't mean that we keep a hospital, or that we have smallpox.

The contract cane-loaders loaded at Kohala last Sunday afternoon, and some old-fashioned soul might say it was a judgment on them that one of the wagons upset. They waited until the sheriff had gone home from church.

The Halawa Tung Wo society gave a grand feast to its members on May 5.

Frank May returned from town last week.

The Austins have moved into the house vacated by the Allens, which was formerly occupied by Wm. May.

The new tennis court at Hilo will be opened for business on Saturday. Enthusiasts are welcome.

J. F. Visser left on the Mauna Kea. He had been at Hilo seven and a half years as stock overseer, and leaves Kohala with the best of wishes from everyone.

The Kohala plantation men who carry home donkey-loads and back-loads of the roadside tree-trimmings, might be more thoughtful than to pile it up in the middle of the road.

A curious accident occurred on Wednesday, April 28. A horse which was tied close to the railroad cut near the Hononu station became frightened at the passing of the three o'clock train. The horse jumped down from the edge of the cut onto the railroad track, and ran over toward the bridge.

He started to cross, and had gone about twenty feet when he fell. His feet slipped down between the ties, and he rested in that position until help came. Except for a few bruises and bumps, the animal is none the worse for his adventure.

E. F. Patten, manager of the Paualo store, visited his mother and sister on April 28.

Horace Johnson, supervising chemist for the Brewer & Company plantations, has been doing some work in the Hononu Mill during the past week.

A very distinct earthquake shock was felt here on Sunday afternoon at 2:55. It was quite prolonged, and a low, rumbling noise accompanied it.

Messrs. Low, Girdler and C. Ahrens, of Kukuhihale, are making frequent trips to Waimea, where they spend their time in shooting plovers. They usually return home with their bags full of game and smiles, with several skylarks.

A large tank is being erected near the Kapulena reservoir, for the purpose of storing drinking water for the newly built camp.

Pipes will be laid from the reservoir at Kapulena toward the beach and on to a place that the Hawaiians called "Pall-o-Kaulili," to quench the thirst of the sailors and merrymen.

An earthquake shock was felt here Saturday afternoon.

John Botelho, of Papaaloo, found that it costs $5 to slap a man in the face; but he seems to think that if you want to do it badly enough, it is cheap goods.

Jose Gomez is a Papaaloo "booster." He says the place is all right for a man who wants to work and earn his living. His advice is: "Stick to your job and do right, and everything will be O. K."

John Botelho is now employed as luna for the plantation.

The road to the Kihalani Homesteads is being tackled by J. T. Brown of Hilo, who took the contract to build a sixteen-foot macadamized road.

It is rumored that young Mukai is bringing with him a young peach blossom, to surprise us. If it is true, Oh you Seichi!

Hononu.

The Hononu baseball boys were out on the ground to practice, and it looks to the visitors who came to see, as though they were all "grand stand" players. If so, then hurry on and play against Papaikou, and see if the Hononus will defeat the Papaikous, instead of the Hakalaus.

John Kakai was here Tuesday, April 30, instructing the Hononu rat-catcher, how to set a trap. He is a rodent expert.

The Hakala sports bag gathered up a number of boys suitable for baseball, and on Sunday, April 28, a contest game was played between the Hakala and Papaikou teams. The result was, 8 to 22 in favor of the Papaikou team.

Kwong Hong Yuen, manager of the Hononu Chinese store, who will leave for China, gave a luau, in Chinese fashion celebrating the birthday of his son, two years old. There were many guests.

Mrs. V. A. Carvalho is teaching school again. She has brought her sick mother from Hilo to Hononu, where she can attend both school and mother, whose recovery is doubtful.

The road to the Kihalani Homesteads is being tackled by J. T. Brown of Hilo, who took the contract to build a sixteen-foot macadamized road.

John A. Swain had a very narrow escape, April 27, from death, when both he and his horse fell in one of adorn our public highways. The falling horse threw his rider, and the result was spraining his right arm at the elbow, hurting his left arm and receiving a bruise above the right eyebrow.

This will probably not be the last accident of the kind, for many others will happen as long as those dangerous holes in the road are not filled.

Word has been passed around that Papaaloo is to have an orchestra in the near future.

On April 28, the new gasoline boat bought by the Laupahoehoe Japanese was met with flying colors at Papaaloo by canoes decorated for the day. The gasoline boat came all the way from Hilo.

Mrs. John A. Swain of Hilo has been staying with her folks at Papaaloo, and will move to her new Kihalani home in a very short time, as the house is being built.

The mill closed down for a week, during the latter part of April, in order to advance the field work.

Pohakupuka.

The Ninole railroad bridge has been finished and the ones at Poopoo and Manoloa are being tackled.

The railroad station at Honohina opened its doors to the public on the first of May.

On April 23, Mr. Amos J. Ignacio went to Hononu, after school, to investigate the case of Jose Rodriguez, a member of the St. Antonio Society, as to his rights to receive sick benefits.

The Hakala plantation Co. had the homestead road, next to the Pohakupuka school, macadamized, as it was almost impassable on account of the mud.

Moses Chalmers, a pupil of the sixth grade in the Pohakupuka school, has been busy binding books for the school, and a few for outsiders.

During the fourth week of April the Pohakupuka school received about twenty books for its library. The library now consists of over 100 books. It was started by the present principal of the school as soon as he took charge.

The railroad way from Pohakupuka to Papaaloo is almost complete, with the exception of the bridges.

Miss Mary Chalmers, of Pohakupuka, has discontinued her daily train trips to the Hilo High school; they were too wearisome and expensive.

Joseph Vieira will be transferred to the Ninole railroad station as soon as it is built.

Kohala.

A new macadam road is being built from Mr. Achilles' gate to the Seminary gate. Just now, it is hard on his auto tires, but limey it will be jottless.

A Kohala lady was relating to her patient husband her tribulations with mail order shopping in the East. She had sent for samples of dress goods and got men's suitings; she had ordered lawn and got silk; she had been notified that she did not send money enough, when she really had a balance to her credit; and the firm had made her pay postage when they had promised to do it.

There is to be a Sunday school institute at Iolo church, on May 15, conducted by Rev. H. P. Judd, of Kailua, Maui, and Rev. Akiko Akana, recently returned from Hartford Theological Seminary. These two have been appointed by the Hawaiian board as leaders of institute work for the Sunday school teachers of Hawaii.

They will begin their work at Kohala, and go from here to Waimea, on their way home. This will be a fine opportunity for all the Sunday school workers of this district, of whatever denomination, to get help for their work from two of the most competent leaders in Hawaii. The institute will begin at 10 a. m. Wednesday, May 15, and continue all day.

Central Kona.

Judge Stanley spent two or three days at Mrs. C. E. Greenwell's, and took an auto to Kohala on May 1.

Mrs. R. Wallace returned from Honolulu on April 27.

The Christ Church branch of the women's auxiliary held their annual sale of Lenten work on Tuesday, April 30, which resulted in $70. This is to be sent to Honolulu to help the good work done by the Iolani College. This is in addition to the $5 apportionment and $10 for the united offering.

Waiohina.

The Chinese butcher in the employ of the Naalehu butcher shop, roping a bullock last week, in some way got his horse tangled in the rope and, as usual, he and horse were thrown to the ground. The horse got off all right but the Chinaman was not so lucky. He is laid up with a broken ankle.

Geo. J. Green is in charge of the government warehouse at Honouliuli in the absence of Floyd Eaton.

Supervisor Kaubane is putting the roads in and around the village of Waiohina in excellent shape.

Dr. Bowman is doing good work in this district at present. He is compelling the Naalehu merchants to put their buildings in a sanitary condition. Most of the buildings were built flat on the ground and now have to be raised twenty inches.

Pahoa.

Miss Myrtle Cassels, who has been visiting Mrs. Ashman, has gone to Honolulu to accept a responsible position with the Bishop Trust Co. Several delightful little dinner parties were given in her honor, and all at Pahoa unite in wishing her success.

James Crane, who had his leg broken some time ago, is reported to be improving nicely and will soon be around again.

The new train schedule, which went into effect May 1, makes it possible for school children to attend school in Hilo, and is a great convenience. With three trains daily, Pahoa is quite a lively place.

Pahala.

Mr. and Mrs. George Chalmers, of Waimanalo, have been visiting at the Volcano and Pahala the past week.

Mrs. Peterman and daughter, Jettie, left by yesterday's Kilauea for an extended visit in Honolulu.

On Sunday, Kau experienced one of the heaviest earthquake shocks that has been felt in a long time. At Pahala a mauka camp had several of the house swung off their underpinnings. The cement reservoirs were cracked and the stone walls thrown down, in places.

Mrs. Soares has left for Honolulu on a visit.

Hakalau.

On Saturday, April 27, a romantic elopement took place from Honohina, the hero and heroine of the romance being Ernest de Lima, of Hakalau, and Mary, daughter of the late Joe Santiago, of Honohina. Arrangements had already been completed for a marriage on that same day, where Miss Santiago was to have been married to a certain widower, the possessor of a large young family, who lives not very far from Honohina. When M— came to seek his bride she was nowhere to be found, but his worst fears were speedily realized when the news shortly arrived that the bride had fled to Hilo with her Lochinvar. The jilted lover became frantic with anger, and threats against the young lovers floated in the wind all the way from Honohina to Hakalau, but a select cortege who met the bridal pair on their return to Hakalau, by the late train on Saturday night, in the hope of seeing some fireworks, were sadly disappointed, as there was nothing doing, and the bride and groom were allowed to go to their home unmolested.

Kapoho.

The plumbers and painters of the

Hilo railroad were busy fixing up houses.

Mr. Filler was out here in his railroad machine, on official business.

Mr. Eugene Horner, supervising principal, was here this week, visiting the Kapoho school and schools in this vicinity.

Mr. Walley, passenger conductor, and wife, and Mr. Kamaka, brakeman, and his wife, have moved out here.

Born:—To Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Clark, a robust girl. The happy parents are being congratulated by all.

Mr. J. Shainwald, principal of the Kapoho school attended the teachers' meeting in Hilo, Friday.

Mr. Thompson, of Honolulu, has accepted a position with Lord-Young & Co. at the quarry.

Mr. Green will soon leave for Honolulu. He has our best wishes in all his future undertakings.

South Kona.

The Kamehameha Glee Club, in charge of Chas. E. King as its musical director, will make a flying trip to Kohala some time in June, for a series of grand concerts to be given at Waimea and Kohala.

Henry Leslie of Napoopoo, and Miss Joana Gaspar were quietly married. Mr. Leslie is now keeper of the Napoopoo landing. Congratulations!

Philip Hall

ON THE COAST

WILLOWS, Cal., Journal, April 26: The Rev. Charles Young, of San Francisco, formerly of Willows, was here today accompanied by Philip Hall, of Honolulu. Mr. Young is in the real estate business and came to this city to establish a branch office here: Mr. Hall will be his representative, and has taken office room with Chester Robinson of South Tehama street for the present. He is stopping at the Crawford hotel. Mr. Hall is a noted church singer. He was soloist at the First Baptist church of Oakland and in other prominent churches. It is likely that he will be heard in this city next Sunday at the Christian church.

Mr. Young was the Christian pastor here when the local church was built. His real estate plans are now made public. It is believed they will be very interesting and beneficial to Glenn county when they are set in motion.

THE MYTHICAL "AMERICAN RUSH."

New York World: Arnold Bennett, in the course of his peregrinations through the United States, observed that "the legendary 'American rush' is a fable."

"Whether it ever existed I know not," he says, "but I certainly saw no trace of it in New York or Chicago."

It has always been a myth, one of the proofs of which may be found in the long persistence of the idea that Americans are always in a hurry. But, except as respects the home-going rush in the subway and on the elevated, there is doubtless no civic population in the world which has such a superabundance of leisure as New Yorkers. There are probably between the Battery and the Harlem river more loafers, more people whose congenial occupation it is to watch others work, than in London or Paris. A horse has only to fall down in Broadway and straightaway a crowd gathers of proportions sufficient to populate a city of the second class. On the analogy of myths, that of Deucalion and the stones thrown over his shoulder from which grown men sprang up has its daily parallel in New York whenever a block of marble is raised to its place in a skyscraper's walls.

lost to creative industry. Such a computation of the hours and fragments of days dissipated by New York street crowds in watching other people labor would show enough aggregate time lost to build a subway. Who are the thousands and tens of thousands of physically robust persons who pack the subway trains in the hours when other people are at their desks or benches? Who are the other tens of thousands who rather as if by magic to watch the street parade or follow the policeman who has made an arrest, or who camp for hours at the scene of any accident?

TO MAKE NEXT FOURTH BIG ONE

The plans of the local business men to have an elaborate Fourth of July celebration this year, as announced a few days ago in the Star, are rapidly assuming definite shape. A joint committee of the Merchants' Association and the Chamber of Commerce, which has the matter in hand, got together Friday afternoon and went over the plans, which it was decided will require an expenditure of $2500 to carry out.

Something will be doing on the Fourth from early morning, when the national salute will be fired, until late at night. The morning will start with a time-honored parade of antiquities and horrors, followed by water sports in the harbor. At noon a literary program will be rendered at the Opera House, and in the afternoon miscellaneous sports will be held at Kapulani Park. In the evening a water carnival will probably be held on the harbor.

The committee plans to make the day the most perfect of its kind in the history of Honolulu.
